

A rare George III Wine Label made by Phineas Garde of Cork and assayed in Dublin circa 1815 and retailed by Matthew West.

Description

The label is modelled in an unusual die stamped vine leaf, with matted surface, a different design to that as seen in London at this date. The centre is engraved on a raised banner with CREMA DI VINO and the reverse displays a good set of marks. This piece is in quite excellent condition and considering its size, it has a length of 2.5 inches and a width of 2.5 inches, at the widest point. As you will appreciate, it is rare to find an Irish made Crema Di Vino label, however to find one by a scarce Cork maker is very desirable indeed.
