Short Description

---

The Candlesticks are cast and have shaped bases with a sunken circular well, decorated with reeding. The baluster faceted stems, and spool shaped sockets, are also decorated with reeded bands. The bases are very well marked and the candlesticks have a good colour and weight. William Gould was apprentice to his brother, James Gould, and was also a specialist candlestick maker. His most famous work is the great Knesworth Chandelier in the Fishmongers Company, which is dated 1752.

Height: 6.5 inches, 16.25cm.

Base Diameter: 4.45 inches, 11.13cm.

Weight: 30oz the pair.
